

Fashionable Laptop Bags Let You Geek Out in Style

As New York Fashion Week rolls around, we bring you the sexiest designer bags of the upcoming season. And some are practical, too.

Sarah Jacobsson, PC World

Sep 15, 2009 6:00 pm

Malcolm Fontier Entertainer Tech

Finally, a laptop bag that doesn't even look like a laptop bag! The Malcolm Fontier Entertainer Tech bag fits your laptop vertically, which gives the entire bag a sleeker, sexier look than most laptop bags have. Unfortunately, you'll have to pay a price for sexy--with the Entertainer Tech bag, you'll be fighting to carry much more than a laptop and some papers. Let's just say that, while this is not the bag for anybody who wants to tote peripherals, it is the perfect bag for a laptop minimalist. The Entertainer Tech is made of polyurethane-coated canvas and fits laptops up to 15.4 inches--and with a magnetic flap closure and linen lining, it's easily the height of laptop-bag style. It features leather accents, a padded compartment for your laptop, a neoprene camera/iPod/passport pocket, and a built-in card holder. It has plenty of pockets for your gadgets, too--but to keep the bag looking sleek, you'll not want to stuff your gear into every extra space you can find. The Entertainer Tech comes in dark brown with light-brown accents, and is available from Malcolm Fontier for $249.