

GADGET LAB

HARDWARE THAT ROCKS YOUR WORLD

iMojito: The Vegan Friendly iPhone Case and Wallet

By Charlie Sorrel  November 19, 2009 | 6:11 am | Categories: Accessories and Peripherals

Funnily enough, the Malcolm Frontier promo video showcasing its "iMojito" all-in-one iPhone case and wallet (naked girl on a scooter, naked guy on fixed-gear bike, naked guy running, all SFW) demonstrates my first thought about this case: At the end of the rather nice video spot, the naked guy (on foot) grabs the wallet (cash, cards, iPhone) from the naked girl on the moped (she's carrying it in her mouth. Where else?), handily making away with all her valuables in one easy to steal package.

It's a classic case of too many eggs and not enough baskets, but if you are the thrill seeking type who likes to live on the edge etc. [insert more cliches here] then the design of the minimalist wallet and case has much to like. The phone and cards slip into the main sections and a further pocket in the side takes your folded bills.

The iPhone peeks out of the top and is held in place by an elastic chin-strap (on the regular iPhone-less Mojito the strap holds the cards instead). The case has a slot in the bottom, too, so you can charge the iPhone whilst still inside, and a microfiber lining should de-grease the screen for you.

The site claims that the Mojito does for wallets what the Pod did for MP3 players. While we doubt that, one thing is certainly true. With its polyurethane shell, even meat-shunning Steve Jobs could use one. $35.

Mojito product page [Malcolm Frontier]

Cheeky video [Malcolm Frontier]

23 tweeted

Tags: cases, iPhone, meat

Post Comment | Permalink

Digg submit

b Yahoo! Buzz

Stumble

ShareThis